Why Miss Mollett's

Jessie Blanche Mollett was born in Richmond, Surrey on 13th November, 1881. She eventually moved to Rye where she opened an antiques shop.

She later moved to Appledore in the 1920s to the property now known as Old Way Cottage where she lived until her death on 28th February, 1970 at the age of 88. During her time in the village she bought several properties and opened the tea room and guest house pictured.

This thrived until the outbreak of the Second World War in 1939 when she gave up the business. She is buried in Appledore Churchyard nearby.

Alexandra and John Cowell moved to Appledore with their family on the day of the Great Storm of 1987 and Alex's sister Frances MacDonald and husband Alan joined them twenty years later in 2007. They decided to realise a long-held ambition to open a tea room to serve the many visitors to the village, as well as providing a meeting place for local residents.

Both sisters have been researching their family history and were contacted by Sue, a 4th cousin, twice removed. Imagine their surprise when they learned from Sue of a 3rd cousin, once removed, Jessie Mollett, who had had the same idea of opening a tea room in Appledore! When thinking of a name for ours, Miss Mollett's seemed the natural choice.

Our tea room previously housed a well known antiques and collectables shop called High Class Junk, which in turn took its name from its predecessor, High Class Butchers! We thought it fitting to continue the theme, hence:
